Dear Harold,

Agreed completely on Uncle Chester. Scaring him off is the last thing that should happen. My friends wrote him a thank-you-and-gimme note that was just a reminder of his offer, and there it stands. If further prodding is necessary, I may come unstage. I'm already jotting down appropriate ack-ack from the King James Old Testament (Uncle Chester's bag). He also thinks the Commies did in JFK, and I have no intention whatever of disabusing him. As long as he has those tapes, I'll play any game he wants.

One question (don't bother if you lack the time and/or inclination): is the Cheramie incident reasonably accurate, either the Jones or Turner version? What corroboration is there for it?

Regards,

Jerry
